Last Modified on 03/13/2024 5:55 pm EDT

When you are ready to for people to view a video or listen to a podcast, you can either share a link to view/listen on WeVideo or export a copy that you can upload to another streaming service, such as Panopto (the College's ad-free streaming service) or YouTube.

Before you start, you will need:

- a Bryn Mawr WeVideo account
- at least one WeVideo project

Export a copy of your project for viewing

You will need to finish and export a copy of your project to download or share it with others for viewing. (Note that this does not prevent you editing your project later; it merely exports a compiled copy as a podcast, video or GIF file that non-editors others can view.)

1. Log into WeVideo.
2. Click Projects, then select a project to open it in the editor.
3. Click Finish.
4. Configure your export settings:
 - Title
 - Choose a thumbnail image
 - Export format (Video, Audio only or GIF)
 - Resolution: use SD if file size or bandwidth is a concern or HD for best resolution, but a larger filesize.
 - Destination:
 - ▶ (WeVideo - Download) -- download to your computer. Choose if you plan to upload to Panopto.
 - ☁ (OneDrive); pre-connected if you logged through Office365.
 - 📁 (Google Drive); pre-connected if you logged in through Google with Haverford credentials.
 - Other options require connecting to an account on the destination platform; some may require payment.
5. Click Export.

Share Exported projects

Exported videos, projects and GIFs are stored under the Exports tab on your main WeVideo Dashboard.
